Expected Attendance: 1000

Location: Portland, OR

Conference website: <https://hssonline.org/>

Subject/History: History, philosophy, and ethics of science, medicine, & technology from ancient to modern times. All historic periods are of interest, but in recent years books on the early modern period, the early Atlantic, and slavery were a big hit. Good interest too in ecology, evolutionary biology, and women in science. This is the largest meeting for this specialty.

Subject/History: History & culture of Britain & the British Empire. Books on the early modern period & gender issues are of the most interest, but also art, politics, & religion from the Middle Ages to the present. Good interest in women's history. Avid browsers and book buyers, particularly of history titles. Not as much interest in literary studies with this group.

The Scholar's Choice

Conference code: 23-076

Name: Social Science History Association

Date: November 16-19, 2023

Expected Attendance: 800-900

Location: Washington, DC

Conference website: <https://ssha.org/>

Subject/History: Historical inquiry using social science methods & insights. Special sections on politics, labor, migration, urban ecology, gender, ethnicity, & economics. The most popular books tend to deal with immigration/migration, historical demography, gender & LGBT topics, labor, social policy, children, ethnicity, genocide, family, school desegregation, & politics. There is enthusiasm for the books (especially attending authors' books), & many orders for newer titles, particularly those on methodology & historical inquiry.
